PRE-PRIMARY BILL IS OK'D IN COMMITTEE

ENDORSES CANDIDATES FOR STATE OFFICES, U. S. SENATORS

Candidates Chosen by the Convention Would Have Their Names Placed on the August Primary. With Note That They Were Recipients of the Party Endorsements.

First tangible step to destroy the direct state primary election was taken Wednesday in the Ohio senate.

Over the opposition of Senator G. H. Bender, Cleveland, the senate elections committee recommended for passage the bill backed by Republican "bosses" of the state to provide for a pre-primary nomination convention.

The bill will be placed on the senate calendar for passage Thursday.

Measure approved by the committee was drafted at a meeting of Republican "bosses" and central committee members last Sunday in Cleveland.

The bill provides for a convention every two years at which candidates for U. S. senator and state officers would be "endorsed" by the party organization.

Would Head Ticket.

Names of such candidates would be placed at the head of the primary ticket, designated as approved by the party convention and would not be rotated as names of candidates rotate on the ticket now.

Delegates to the pre-primary convention would be elected in presidential years at the presidential primary. In the "off" years, a special primary would be held the last Tuesday in April.

Each county would be allowed a minimum of one delegate and additional representation on the basis of one delegate for each 500 votes cast for the party nominee at the preceding gubernatorial election.

Bill Attacked.

"This bill will nullify the primary and make a farce of the whole business," declared Senator Bender. "It is backed by the Republican bosses who are losing their power and the grasping at this as a last straw."

Bender also warned the committee that Governor Donahey will veto it, and that, if it should be passed over the veto it will be taken to a referendum and defeated by the people themselves."

"This legislature would be just playing into Donahey's hands and helping make him stronger than ever, with the people," he added, "and putting the Republican party in a hole."

Senator Marshall, Greene county, denied that he had been asked by any "bosses" to introduce his bill, after Bender charged that Maurice Maschke, Rud Hynicka, Walter Brown and "that crowd" was backing it.

He sponsored the bill, he said, because the present primary system is "unsatisfactory." Should the pre-primary be adopted and work satisfactorily, he would favor doing away entirely with the primary election, he said.

Extra Expense.

Senator Aigler, Huron county said the only question in his mind was whether, instead of proposing a pre-primary convention, provision should not be made instead that nomination should be left to a convention if no primary candidate gets a majority of the vote.

The pre-primary convention, he said, would entail extra expense to the people.

Senators C. C. Chappellear, Pickaway county; J. D. Days, Belmont county; Homer Ramey, Lucas county; L. L. Marshall, Cuyahoga county; L. T. Marshall, Greene county; W. R. Price, Summit county; G. M. Kumer, Preble county and A. G. Aigler, Huron county, all Republicans, voted to recommend the bill for passage.

REV. WENRICH ACCEPTS CALL TO STOUTSVILLE.

Rev. J. M. Wenrich, pastor of Hilltop Lutheran church has accepted a call to return to a former charge in Stoutsville, Ohio, which he had served 18 years. About a month ago Rev. Mr. Wenrich received a call from the Stoutsville Lutheran church which at the time he declined with the expectation of taking up field work for the home mission board, to which he has also received a call.

The congregation, however, renewed the call last week, sending a delegation here to visit the local pastor with the result that he gave his acceptance a few days later.

Rev. Mr. Wenrich came to Columbus from Wapakoneta, Ohio, nine years ago to organize the Hilltop church and has since been its pastor. He will conduct his final services there Sunday. Following the Lenten service Thursday evening the Hilltop congregation held a farewell reception for the pastor and his wife. After 16 years, Rev. and Mrs. Wenrich will return to Stoutsville next week—Columbus Dispatch.

AT ST. PHILIP'S TONIGHT.

The Rev. Sidney E. Sweet, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church is to speak at St. Philip's church this evening at 7:30. Those who have radio sets have heard Mr. Sweet from WBAV Columbus and now have an opportunity to see him and hear in person.

Boys Showed Them Who Were the Bosses

Boy students of the Junior college of Arkansas City, Ark., organized a "no-date club" and donned red shirts and ties to denote membership. Thereupon the girls became miffed and declared publicly they "wore no man's collar." The boys captured them and padlocked dog collars on their necks, and the above picture was made just before the girls had the collars filed off by a blacksmith.

INCOME TAX TIME EXTENDED TO MARCH 16.

Washington, March 12 (UP).—Taxpayers have until midnight next Monday to file their income tax returns this year, the internal revenue bureau pointed out in an official statement today.

The legal "last day" is March 15, but because it falls on Sunday another 24 hours of grace will be given.

The bureau warned, however, that if placed in the mails, the return should be posted in ample time to reach the collectors office, under ordinary handling of the mails "on or before the date on which the return is required to be filed."

"If a return is made and placed in the mails in due course, properly addressed and postage paid, no penalty will attach should the return not actually be received by such office until subsequent date, the statement added.

THE FIRST GOOD CATCH OF SEASON—OTHER FISH NEWS

Dr. Gay L. Hitler, recently caught six fine bass in Scioppo creek. On the trip the doctor consumed one and a half hour's time; it took him one hour to catch eight minnows, fifteen minutes to go to his "sunfish-hole" and fifteen minutes to make the catch.

George Foerst with minnows he had carried over since last fall ready to hand, accompanied by Fred Wittich, went to Scioppo Tuesday but only succeeded in landing a single bass each. They evidently didn't find the Hitler "sun-fish hole."

Akron, March 12—Attempts to implicate Sheriff Chris Weaver in the federal investigation of tax prohibition enforcement were made today as federal agents continued their probe.

The agents were told that Weaver had obtained 35 gallons of whisky from Mayor E. B. Conger of Peninsula, for the picnic of a secret order.

Advised of the charge Weaver admitted obtaining the whisky but said he had turned it all over to Akron hospitals to be used as medicine.

CIRCLEVILLE'S POST OFFICE; JORDON FARM

Two Bills Introduced by Mel G. Underwood Left in Congressional Bone Yard.

Because congress did not act on a bill introduced by Representative Mel G. Underwood the will of the late Wesley Jordon of Fairfield county, Ohio, still stands intact. When Mr. Jordon, who was a peculiar character, died he left a 40 acre farm to Uncle Sam and a small sum of money besides.

It was the judgment of the man's neighbors, including some of his best friends that the estate should have been left in fee simple to the persons with whom he lived and who cared for him in his last illness. Responding to this sentiment, Mr. Underwood introduced a bill declining the bequest on behalf of the United States, but the bill never got farther than reference to the judiciary committee. This means that Uncle Sam is still in line to get that Fairfield county real estate.

Another Underwood bill that took the count appropriated $125,000 for the acquisition of a site and erection of a postoffice building at Circleville.—Louis Ludlow's Washington D. C. Letters.

MARRIED SIXTY-FIVE YEARS AGO.

Cincinnati, March 12 (UP).—Sixty-five years ago in Pittsburgh John and Nora Kenney were married.

The next year they came to Cincinnati and established a home in Cutter street. Six children were born to them.

Last night John Kenney died. Six hours later Nora followed him. They had lived in the same house in Cutter street for 64 years. Neighbors said they never quarreled.

Mrs. Channing Verebome spent the day in Columbus the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Smith.

KILLED ON SCIOTO TRAIL.

Lou Niedermeier of Huntington, West Virginia, was killed on the Chillicothe pike Tuesday evening when the auto in which he was riding skidded, turned over and he was pinned under the car. The accident happened four miles north of Chillicothe on the Columbus pike. He died at the hospital a few hours later.

New Lexington, March 12—An automobile riddled by fifty bullet holes and containing several quarts of liquor, an umbrella and a woman's hat was found at the roadside near here. Police believe it was abandoned by a rum runner.

PICKAWAY COUNTY COUPLE

Celebrated Golden Wedding Anniversary in Columbus Wednesday.

On a March day 50 years ago there was a great event in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Wehe, late of Grove City, parents of Scott Wehe, of 535 Trebitt street, city councilman. It was, in short, nothing more or less than the day when they promised each other "to love and to honor till death do us part." And Wednesday they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, with their family and friends gathered about them, after 50 years of married life.

Four generations were in attendance at the family home during the afternoon and evening, when a party was given to celebrate the event. The Wehe family were for many years residents of Ohio, Mr. Wehe having been born near Circleville, while Mrs. Emily Wehe was reared in Pickaway county.

Members of the immediate family who attended the anniversary were: City Councilman Scott Wehe and two other sons, Earl of 708 Harmon avenue and Charles Wehe of Toluca, Illinois, and three daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Durrett and Mrs. Ida Summerville, both of 206 East Mound streets, and Mrs. Blanche Fuller, of 685 East Whittier street.—Columbus Dispatch.

FOUNDING AMERICAN LEGION

Governor Donahey Proclaims Friday Evening as Legion Air Night.

Governor Donahey proclaimed the night of March 16, as "Legion Air Night," in Ohio, when the 500 posts in this state will meet at their usual places for an annual roll call, reunion and celebration of the birthday of the American Legion.

"We should ever be ready to show our appreciation of the services of the 262,000 sons Ohio proudly sent into the great war. They served faithfully and loyally," the governor pointed out in urging all World war veterans to attend the reunion meetings in their own locality.

"The American Legion is the representative organization of the World war veterans. As Ohio was proud of her soldiers in the great war, so is Ohio proud of her American Legion" the chief executive said.

Man Supposed Dead Fifty Years Is Alive, Aged 82

New York.—The New York Cotton exchange has discovered its last surviving charter member in the person of William L. Black of Del Rio, Texas, who had been listed on the records of the exchange as dead for half a century. At the age of eighty-two, Mr. Black recently read that the exchange had announced the death of its last charter member, and he wrote to E. E. Bartlett, Jr., president, to claim the distinction of being the only man living who helped to organize the institution in 1870.

Inventor Sinks Boat Makes It Rise in Hour

Berlin.—An invention said to render ships unsinkable was given a trial on Lake Constance, according to the Tageblatt. The inventor, a German engineer named Libertrau, installed the apparatus in a boat with a cargo of 300 kilograms (660 pounds). Libertrau then sank the boat, declaring it would reappear within an hour. This it did.

It is said that the apparatus drives the water out of the hold of a vessel.

Be Ready to Put Out Fire

Having a fire extinguisher on hand may mean the saving of valuables. You can make one yourself. All you have to do is to dissolve 20 pounds of common salt and 10 pounds of chloride of ammonia in 7 gallons of water. Pour this into thin glass quart bottles, cork well and seal to prevent evaporation. When you discover a blaze throw a bottle into the flame with sufficient force to shatter it or break off the neck of the bottle and scatter the contents on the fire.

Birds Foretell Weather

Birds are said to be especially good as barometers. There is an old rhyme that says, "When the fowls roll in the sand rain is at hand," and when hens are seen trimming their feathers it is a good sign of rain. Skylarks soar high if the weather is likely to remain good, but low if wet days impend.

Crabbe Rules Roseville Institution Cannot be Bought
From Rotary Fund.

Altho the injunction against purchase of the Roseville brick plant pending in Franklin county common pleas court was dissolved Tuesday, the state of Ohio cannot purchase the plant and pay for it out of the rotary fund. This was the opinion of Attorney General Charles C. Crabbe rendered to State Auditor Joseph T. Tracey, Wednesday afternoon.

The only way in which the purchase can be consummated is for the owner, T. D. Van Camp, to bring suit in mandamus, at which time the state will resist payment on the ground that this plant cannot be legally purchased out of the rotary fund. Mr. Crabbe said.

The Roseville plant is an echo from the pre-election controversy between Governor Dorahey and Attorney General Crabbe. State Welfare Director John E. Harper contracted for the purchase of the plant at a price of $35,000. Republican leaders challenged the purchase, claiming that the plant was worthless. An injunction suit was brought to restrain the purchase but this suit was dissolved Tuesday.

In his opinion Wednesday, Attorney General Crabbe held that altho the power is given to purchase land, quarries, buildings and machinery from the rotary fund with the approval of the governor, such power can not be exercised unless the legislature has made appropriation therefor from the funds in the treasury. "This is expressly provided for in the constitution," Mr. Crabbe said.

Therefore, unless the general assembly appropriates the necessary $35,000 the plant can not be purchased under the law, the attorney-general holds.

PICKAWAY COUNTY
FARM BUREAU

Is One of Ten in Ohio Which Are Joining In the Present "Come Along" Campaign For More Members.

The County Farm Bureau in this county is one of ten in Ohio which are joining in the present "Come Along" campaign for more members and a broader service program in rural Ohio. In each of these counties the same general outline of plans is being followed as leaders in this county are using. All of them expect to follow the active solicitation with the building of a more permanent program for community and agricultural betterment in their counties.

The complete list of counties now at work is: Brown, Greene, Huron, Madison, Marion, Pickaway, Ross, Sandusky, Stark and Tuscarawas.

County Farm Bureaus in other sections of the state are expecting to follow the same general plan in similar campaigns which are to be arranged later in the year.

Team workers in the present farm bureau membership campaign will emphasize the far reaching effect of joining the local organization, the campaign director reports. Each farmer who signs the membership agreement is not only backing the local work of the organization in community and other rural development projects, but is joining the Ohio and American Farm Bureau Federations as well.

The American Federation is the largest organization of farmers the world has ever seen. Organized in 1919 with representatives of 28 states at the first meeting, every state in the Union, save one, now has a functioning farm bureau organization similar to the one in this state.

During its short existence the national organization has achieved great things in the opinion of the farmers. It has been a nation-wide leader in co-operative marketing, in legislation, in the settlement of nation-wide transportation problems which affect farmers, in supporting boys' and girls' club work and in general rural community work. A number of the co-operative marketing associations in which farmers of this county are interested are operating under plans formulated by the farm bureau which hook them up as a part of a national group working on the same problem.

CALLED TO NEW YORK

As an indirect result of a death which occurred in the company of which his father is vice president, Thomas William Sweeney, who has been in charge of Publicity for the last few months, has been called to take a place by his father's side. He is to relinquish his duties at the Home Office on March 1. Most of you who were at the Convention will remember Tom, especially when we remind you that he is the one who so effectively played the part of "George Washington Ellis" in "Paradise Parodies." While Tom has the prospects of a mighty fine future ahead of him in the fire insurance brokerage business, he is leaving the Phoenix Mutual with a great deal of regret, especially because of the many folks both in the Home Office and the field who have become his friends and for whom it has always been a pleasure for him to render service. We are sure that those of you who know Tom will join with The Field in wishing him all success in his new undertaking. His future address will be 1 Liberty Street, New York City.—The Phoenix Mutual Field.

The young man is a grandson of Mrs. Anna Ruth of this city.

The local National Guard Motor Transport Co., No. 145, is still in need of ten more men, and only a few days left to secure the required number of men. The local officers are very anxious for the high school boys to join, for it is the officers intention to make this organization a social as well as a military organization. The parents should encourage their boys to join for no education is complete without some military training and here the boys could receive this training without any cost to them and being paid for their time. Many parents pay out large sums of money each year to send their boys to a military college. Here the men are required to drill one night each week for which they are paid $1 to $2.80 for one and one-half hours drill. Then they spend two weeks during the month of July or August at Camp Perry, which is located on Lake Erie, there they are under the home town of officers to see that they are taken care of in the right way, here too they are paid as stated above, with all transportation, food, quarters, equipment furnished by the federal government. In case the men move to some other city or state they may receive their discharge from the guards.

All local citizens are proud of their National Guard company, and we should encourage our best young men to join, so that when they are called to camp, or for duty in some other part of the state, that when they inform others that they are from Circleville, that they will give credit to our home town. Lieutenant Littleton, Lieutenant Lynch or Major Marx would be glad to visit any parents who would like to have any information concerning the Guard company before they consent to have their boys join, or the recruiting officer will be at the Armory each day this week, from 9 a. m. to 11 p. m. Let all citizens get behind the local company and help the local officers secure the required number of men to bring the organization to the required strength. Let everybody boost.

MAYBE IT WAS WORTH WHILE

Was government operation of the railroads a total loss?

"Financially," says the Minneapolis Journal, "it was. But at least it demonstrated once and for all the utter impracticability and futility of government management. It resulted, as it always has, wherever tried, in tremendous waste, inefficiency and loss through superfluous expenditures, padded payrolls and the growth of bureaucracy. If this lesson has been thoroughly learned in the United States, it may be worth all it has cost."

This Razor a "Mower"

The strangest razor in the history of the tonsorial art is in the possession of John Rogers, a Manchester (England) barber. It is a combination of blades, made up into the form of a miniature lawnmower, which Rogers uses on the faces of his more heavily whiskered customers. He charges an extra fee for use of the "mower."

SAXOPHONE ORIGIN.

A good word at last has been said of letter writers to London newspapers for the saxophone. Quite a number papers have come to the defense of the instrument and by argument and facts have endeavored to shift the onus onto the jazz saxophonist—and not the instrument itself.

The saxophone was not an accident by any means, it is explained in the Star, having been invented by Antoine Joseph Sax, born at Dinant, Belgium, November 6 1814, the son of a reed instrument maker. He studied at the Brussels Conservatory of Music and his proficiency on both the flute and the clarinet became marked. There were many opportunities for Sax to become a musician of note, but he preferred to return to the bench.

Moving to Paris in 1842, Sax produced the first "saxhorn" in 1843. In 1846 a soprano saxophone was manufactured and patented, followed by the family of the alto, tenor and baritone saxophone. Sax, however, failed to profit by his work and at the age of 82 he died penniless and pretty well forgotten even in musical circles.

AMUSEMENTS

The Authentic Atmosphere, obtained by filming the exterior scenes in England in the exact spots described by Thomas Hardy, is one feature of Marshall Neilan's Metro-Goldwyn production of "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," a Louis B. Mayer presentation now showing at the Met theater.

Neilan had planned for several years to film Hardy's famous novel and make it his greatest cinematic effort, with his wife, Blanche Sweet in the title role.

Conflicting contracts prevented their doing it for several years and when the opportunity did arrive, Neilan determined to spare no pains or expense to make it the best production possible.

Consequently, he filmed a great many of the exterior scenes in Wessex—Stonehenge, and other places described by Hardy. Infinite care was devoted to detail and accuracy in the interior scenes; technical experts aided him in obtaining the correct effect of the English interiors. The result is a picture almost perfect technically.

Opposite Miss Sweet in the role of Angel Clare is Conrad Nagel. The supporting cast includes Stuart Holmes, George Fawcett, Courtney Foote, Victory Bateman and many others. Dorothy Farnum made the adaptation.

x HARTMAN THEATER. x

A tremendous hit the country over, "Rose Marie" swings into the Hartman theater Columbus, Monday, March 16, for a week. Altho it was impossible for Arthur Hammerstein to know it at the premiere of "Rose Marie" in New York this musical play has established a vogue in the theater that has been expanding, until now it is very evident that this producer is a pioneer and that "Rose Marie" as a new type of musical show, has marked another whirl in the ever-moving cycle.

"Rose Marie" marked the beginning of the end for the revue type of musical show, with a leaning to the operetta style, real music and a sturdy plot. That "Rose Marie" will pile up a tremendous box office showing here is evidenced by the fact that since tickets were placed on sale at the theater, a line, almost unbroken, has filed in from the sidewalks. Irene Pavolka, a singing power with the Chicago Opera company, is featured member of "Rose Marie." The principals are Guy Robertson, Charles Meakins, Phebe Brune, Charles Silber, Beatrice Kay, Paul Donah, Byron Russell, William O. Skavlan, Cora Frye and others of high rank.

With all the glittering and favorable publicity "Rose Marie" has received Arthur Hammerstein more than likely could reap a rich harvest with a touring organization. The glorious voiced Irene Pavloska outshines any prima donna who has appeared in recent years in musical plays. Her singing of the exquisite "Indian Love Call," is unforgettable. The waltz song, "Rose Marie" is most bewitching. "Totem Tom Tom" with the gorgeous ballet is bewildering in its beauty. Mail orders now.

KILIMANJARO, THE EVEREST OF AFRICA

Is Much Higher Than Blanc or Whitney.

Washington, D. C. — Kilimanjaro mountain of Tanganyika territory, which has been the object of a recent expedition, is one of the most notable "violent contrasts" in Africa, sometimes termed the continent of "violent contrasts."

"Although Africa spreads itself to both temperate zones," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society, "by whim of geography its only notable snow peaks are under the sun's most direct glare and, of its 'high spots' near the Equator, Kilimanjaro is chief."

"Kilimanjaro was unknown to the world a century ago, and unsailed until 1889, but now a railway from Mombasa approaches its flanks. In its way it affords Africa claim to the greatest mountain on the face of the earth. Everest, at 29,002 altitude is almost 10,000 feet higher than Kilimanjaro; there are even peaks having similar volcanic origin rising higher in South and Central America, but all of those great ones rise on the backs of their neighbors. Kilimanjaro stands alone in the heat-scathed wind-swept plain. Without even the company of a mountain ridge it rises solitary from a plateau at 2,500 to 4,000 feet to the snow-capped majesty of 19,819 feet.

Overshadows Blanc and Whitney.
"Europe is proud of its Alps and Pyrenees and the United States considers the Rockies mighty mountains, yet Kilimanjaro is nearly a mile higher than Mt. Whitney, America's tallest peak. It is almost 4,000 feet higher than Mt. Blanc, Europe's leading summit. Kilimanjaro has for company on the equator Mt. Kenya, just over the border, giving its name to Kenya colony and 'the Mountains of the Moon,' officially Ruwenzori, in Uganda, feeding the White Nile with water for Egypt.

"Natives inhabiting the slopes of Kilimanjaro have the legend that the mountain has a silver peak. To tribes who have never seen snow, this seemed the most satisfactory explanation for the gleaming white cap. They associated it with their gods, and the first white men to explore it had great difficulty satisfying the natives that they would not drive away Rayll, the god in the form of a giant cow inhabiting the mountain's high plains.

"The mountain is a small world in itself, or more properly half a world. The snow cap is its polar cap; the high, cold ridges, without vegetation, are like Labrador or the Alaskan steppe, but instead of harboring reindeer, they support flocks of eland. The mountain is a game preserve and the flocks thrive.

"Next comes a belt of heather similar to that of the Scotch highlands. Then the elevation drops, the region of heavy precipitation appears and with it the rain-forest, almost constantly swathed in mist. This thins to the ordinary tropical forest and then dwindles to the mountain's 'temperate zone,' where the tribesmen live. It is estimated 125,000 people now reside on the slopes of Kilimanjaro, and they are counted by some explorers among the most intelligent and progressive natives of Africa.

"The Chagga and other tribes even employ irrigation to grow their crops of bananas, sweet potatoes and grains. Sometimes they merely divert a mountain stream, but frequently considerable engineering skill is used to bring water through tubes or channels considerable distances. The forest belt, not Kilimanjaro's glaciers, supplies most of this life-giving water. The rain-forest is a vast sponge, drinking up the rain and squeezing it out in springs.

Shun Crater and Plain.
"Below the agricultural belt is the scorched dry plain. It is almost impossible to get the natives to venture down to the hot plain as to get them to approach the ice-capped crater.

"Elephants inhabit the thick forests of Kilimanjaro's slopes. Explorers often see their spurs on banks seemingly impossible for such huge animals to manage. One writer reports seeing marks indicating that the elephants thrust their tusks into the ground to steady themselves on a descent, and that scuffed bark showed that they wound their trunks about trees to help themselves up to higher positions."

Midget Sulu Chief Wins Liliputian Beauty

Manila.—Diki Diki, diminutive chief of the island of North Ubian, Sulu, after many disappointments in love, has finally won the affections of Ajaratol, also a liliputian, and the wedding will take place shortly at Jolo, capital of the province.

Diki Diki, who is the most important man of the island, is 36½ inches in height, while his fiancée is 3 inches shorter.

Ajaratol, who lives on the island of Usada, ten miles from North Ubian, is twenty-one, and has had many suitors for her hand. Diki Diki is fifty. Maharajah Kiram, Diki Diki's chief rival for the affections of Ajaratol, is to be best man at the wedding, and Imam Ovil, another rival, is to perform the Mohammedan ceremony.

Some time ago, when the public school authorities gathered in all children of school age, Diki Diki was caught in the net. It was several months before his real age was discovered and he was released from school attendance. He declined, however, to quit school, and is now an ardent pupil in the second grade.

For the last three weeks the pupils of the Circleville high school have been working very hard on a musical comedy the "Gypsy Rover" under the able direction of Miss Wittich and Miss Reynolds.

This is a modern play of rollicking comedy, snappy music and a very lively chorus of thirty boys and girls.

At the review Wednesday evening many persons declared this play the best that has been produced by the Circleville high school for the past ten years; it being far above the average amateur production. Great preparation has been made for the lavish costuming and lighting effects and the company is also supported by the High School orchestra under the direction of Mr. Zaenglein.

Those who have not purchased their seats yet may do so with the full assurance that there are plenty of good seats available.

The chart being at the high school in the evening and at Wilder's Drug store during the day. Do not fail to see this fine production on Thursday and Friday of this week. The curtain rises at 8 o'clock.

Lesson for March 15

OUR LORD'S RESURRECTION

LESSON TEXT—John 20:1-29.
GOLDEN TEXT—"The Lord is risen indeed."—Luke 24:34.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Rises From the Dead.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Risen From the Dead.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Christ's Victory Over Death.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Proofs of the Resurrection of Jesus.

The resurrection of Christ is one of the foundation truths of Christianity. Its entire superstructure stands or falls upon its reality. It is the grand proof that Christ was what He claimed to be, the Messiah, the Son of God (Matt. 12:39-40; John 2:19-21). His resurrection authenticated his claims. If Jesus did not rise from Joseph's tomb, He was not the Son of God, nor a true prophet (He said frequently while alive that He would arise), neither a Savior; not even a good man, for He would then be a falsifier. However, if He did arise, all that He said concerning Himself is true. His resurrection declared Him to be the Son of God with power (Rom. 1:4).

I. The Empty Tomb (vv. 1-10).

John does not enter into a description of the resurrection of Christ, but says the tomb was empty, and that Jesus had repeatedly manifested Himself after the tomb was found empty. To see the body of Christ with a spear thrust and nail prints, and then the empty tomb was all that faith needed.

1. The Testimony of Mary Magdalene (vv. 1-2).

This woman out of whom Jesus had cast seven demons (Mark 16:9; Luke 8:2), announced the fact of the empty tomb to Peter and John. Prompted by great love to Him for His kindness to her, she went early to the tomb even "when it was yet dark." "She was last at the cross, and first at the grave. She stayed longest there and was soonest here." This woman's love for the Master was genuine though her knowledge as to His resurrection was defective. She had realized great good at His hand, therefore she could not rest until she had done her utmost for Him.

2. Personal Investigation by Peter and John (vv. 3, 10).

The news of the empty tomb which Mary brought with breathless haste so moved John and Peter that both ran to investigate. When John came to the empty tomb he gazed into it, but Peter entered it. This investigation convinced them. The removal of the stone from the sepulcher and the arrangement of the grave clothes convinced them that the enemy could not have done this.

II. The Manifestation of the Risen Lord (vv. 11-29).

1. To Mary Magdalene (vv. 11-18).

(1) Mary Weeping at the Empty Tomb (v. 11). Peter and John went home, but Mary could not. She stood weeping. Home was nothing to her while her Lord was missing. Earnest love need not weep long for Jesus is found of those who love Him. She should have been rejoicing that the grave was empty, for the empty tomb was eloquent proof of His messiahship and deity. Had His body been there she would have had real cause for weeping.

(2) Mary Questioned by the Angels (vv. 12-13). She viewed through her tears angels at the tomb who inquired as to the cause of her sorrow. She replied, "Because they have taken away my Lord and I know not where they have laid Him."

(3) Jesus Reveals Himself to Mary (vv. 14-16). She first saw the angels and then her eyes lighted upon the Lord. As soon as He called her by name she recognized Him and fell at His feet weeping.

(4) Jesus Forbade Her to Touch Him (v. 17). This showed that she was coming into a new relationship to Him; besides there was not time for such familiarity while the disciples were in darkness. "Go tell my brethren," was the message she must carry.

(5) Mary's Testimony (v. 18). She told the disciples that she had seen the Lord.

2. To the Disciples (vv. 19-29).

(1) When Thomas Was Absent (vv. 19-23).

a. His message of peace (v. 19).
b. He showed His hands and His side (v. 20).
c. He commissioned them (v. 21).
d. He defended the power that was bestowed upon them (v. 23).

(2) When Thomas Was Present (vv. 24-29).

a. Victory of sight and touch (vv. 24-25).
b. Greater blessings for those who believe, not having seen (v. 29).

A Customer Who Wasn't
Wanted

Almost invariably, when men fall to discussing examples of business sagacity, some one present is reminded of the illustrative incident of the white tramp and the colored saloonkeeper. For the benefit of those who have not heard the story—if any such there be—it is here and now set forth:

The colored man sat behind his bar in a moment when trade was slack. Through the swinging doors entered the ragged Caucasian.

"Give me a good five-cent cigar," he ordered.

The proprietor produced a box containing a number of malignant-looking dark-brown rolls. The patron made a discriminating choice and then in the act of putting the cigar between his lips checked himself as though struck with a new idea.

"Say, I've changed my mind," he said. "Believe I'll take a glass of beer instead."

The negro returned the cigar to its box and drew a glass of beer. The customer drank it, wiped his mouth on the back of his hand and started to withdraw.

"Yere, hole on, white man," said the negro, "you forgot to pay fur dat beer."

"Why, I give you a cigar for it." "Yes, but you ain't paid fur de cigar, neither."

"But you've still got the cigar, ain't you? What's the matter with you, anyhow?"

The colored man scratched his head. "Lemme see, boss," he said, "ef I gits dis thing straight: You don't owe me fur de beer, 'cause you give me de cigar fur it, and you don't owe me fur de cigar 'cause you handed it back to me. Is dat right?"

"Certainly it's right," said the crafty white.

"Ver' well, then," agreed the colored man, "but say, mister, I wants to ax you a favor: Next time you feels lak smokin' or drinkin' please tek yo' custom somewhars else."

Urging on the Elements

Neil O'Brien, the minstrel man, told me that once he landed with a troupe in a Virginia town barely in time to give the customary street parade before the hour of the matinee. Outfitted for marching, the company piled off the train to find awaiting them at the depot a large reception committee of negroes.

Every ducky in the crowd was anxious to get the job of carrying one of the show banners, not alone for the sake of the free pass paid in exchange for the duty but for the added glory of taking part in the procession.

This was a small and struggling troupe, however, which boasted but one banner—a large and ornate square of imitation red silk. A big negro grabbed it as the property man passed it off the car, and clung to it, fighting off all opposition.

As he started proudly up the street, with the flagpole resting in the pit of his stomach, a stiff breeze caught the banner and it belled like a sail, almost dragging the color bearer off his feet and forcing him to back and jibe to keep from being capsized bodily.

Observing his plight a disappointed candidate for the same job raised his voice in invocation from the sidewalk: "Sic him, wind!" he yelled. "Sic him!"

The Kink in Mr. Jones

Mr. Jones was one of those nervous persons inclined to hypochondria. His imagination, from time to time, afflicted him with maladies which never really materialized. Nevertheless, his devoted wife continued to share his apprehensions at each fresh alarm.

One afternoon long before his usual hour for returning from business he fell into the house. His face was white as chalk, and in his eyes was a stricken look. He was bent forward. He tottered to a chair, and, still curled into a half-moon shape, dropped into it.

"Maria," he gasped, "it's come at last! I'll never be a well man again!"

"Merciful heavens!" she cried. "Henry, what has happened?"

"There was no warning," he said. "All of a sudden, awhile ago, I found I couldn't straighten up. I can't lift my head. I feel all drawn."

"Is there any pain?" she asked, fluttering about in her distress.

"No," he said, "there's no pain—that's what makes me think it must be paralysis. Run for the doctor!"

She ran. She returned in a few minutes, bringing with her the family physician. She ushered him into the room where the sufferer was and waited at the door, wringing her hands and dreading the worst.

Almost immediately the physician emerged. He had his face in his hands and his shoulders heaved and shook as though under the stress of an uncontrollable emotion.

"Oh, doctor," cried the agonized Mrs. Jones, "is there any hope for him?"

"Well, madam," he said, "it'll help a good deal if he'll unhitch the third button of his vest from the top button of his trousers."

The biological survey says that the Ivory-bill woodpecker is found at the present time in the west and heavy semi-tropical woods of the southeastern United States. The Carolina parakeet was found in practically the same regions. It is believed by scientists to be extinct, inasmuch as specimens have not been seen in several years. When last seen these birds were found in Florida.

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. BROADCAST EXTENSION SERVICE

Federal and State Agencies
Will Acquaint Farmers
With Educational News.

An evening radio program especially for farmers will soon be developed at station WEAQ, Ohio State university, in response to requests from rural communities thruout Ohio.

So far the state university station has broadcast for Ohio farmers only the weather and market reports, provided by federal and state agencies cooperating, three times a day. The evening program, to come some time between six and eight o'clock, will include short talks and news items of particular interest to farmers.

George Crane, secretary of the agricultural college extension service at Columbus, announces this as one result of a questionnaire sent to all county extension agents. Seventy-two of the 88 counties in Ohio have replied and urged the use of the radio for broadcasting agricultural information.

The 72 counties reported 13,593 radio receiving sets on farms, Mr. Crane says, with the number increasing daily.

Radio lectures for this evening program, those who answered the questionnaire suggested, should average about 20 minutes in length.

Sound Potatoes Are Profitable

Climate Is One of Most Important Factors in Growing Good Crop.

Climate is one of the most important factors in growing a good crop of potatoes. This vegetable demands a fairly cool moist growing season for its best development. Nearly every year droughts in one or more sections of the country are of common occurrence and the potato crop suffers. According to the Michigan Farmer, from which this article is taken, these dry periods followed by heavy rainfall were largely responsible for the high percentage of hollow-hearted potatoes that were produced last season.

It was declared, however, that even in those sections where weather conditions were the most unfavorable last season, that those growers who were following the best cultural practices were producing potatoes of good quality and relatively free from hollow heart. The grower has no control over climate, but he does have control over such factors as soil, seed, planting and spraying, all of which can be used to good advantage in overcoming the effects of adverse weather conditions.

Growers on Right Road.

No one factor alone will solve the quality problem, but a combination of all the good cultural practices will put the grower on the right road to quality production.

The soil furnishes food and water to the plants. If it is lacking at any time during the growing season in available plant food and moisture the development of the plants is checked and the quality of the tubers is injured. It is, therefore, very important to prepare the soil so there will be an abundance of plant food and moisture in it. One of the most economical ways of doing this is to plant the potatoes on alfalfa, sweet clover or clover sod that has been top-dressed the summer or fall previous to planting with ten or more loads of stable manure to the acre. The sods and manure when plowed under decompose and furnish plant food, and the humus that is formed increases the moisture-holding capacity of the soil. Such soil is able to produce good quality crops even in dry seasons. Potato growers should pay more attention to the growing of leguminous crops that will better prepare their soils for potatoes. In some cases, fresh stable manure applied shortly before planting favors the development of potato scab.

Use of Fertilizers.

Commercial fertilizers are becoming more generally used by the potato growers. On good loam soils that are well supplied with organic matter 16 per cent acid phosphate used at the rate of 400 to 600 pounds per acre is usually beneficial. Generally on the lighter loam soils that are not so well supplied with organic matter a complete fertilizer analysis of approximately 3 per cent nitrogen, 12 per cent phosphoric acid and 4 per cent potash gives excellent results when used at the rate of 400 to 800 pounds to the acre. Plant potatoes on soils that are of a loamy type and well drained. Light sands and heavy clays are not suitable for potato production. Sandy loam, gravelly loam and silt loams are excellent types.

On fertile, well prepared soil the yield of good quality potatoes can generally be increased by closer plantings. Some varieties of potatoes have a tendency to set but few tubers to the hill and when the hills are far apart the tubers may grow too large and rough. The practice of planting the hills 36 by 36 inches apart is not generally recommended. Planting distance tests that have been conducted and observations that have been made in the field show that the best results are usually secured where the rows are approximately 36 inches apart and the hills from 15 to 24 inches apart in the rows.

Roup Quite Contagious

Disease Among Chickens

Swollen and running eyes indicate roup, which is a contagious disease, easily spreading through the chicken flock. The sick birds should be removed and kept by themselves until recovered. Their eyes may be washed out several times daily with a solution of boric acid, one ounce to the quart, and a 15 per cent solution of argyrol, to be obtained from the druggist, may be placed in each eye, two or three drops sufficing, once daily after they have been cleaned out with the boric acid. Roup is a difficult disease to cure and may easily be carried over from season to season, making itself evident when the weather becomes cold and wet.

Plan Garden First

It is important to plan the 1925 garden before ordering seed. Make a drawing of the shape of the garden on paper, preferably to scale. Lay out the different rows, indicating the crop to be planted. Plan for succession planting in long straight rows, instead of in small patches or beds. This will allow the use of the hand-wheel hoe and other convenient tools.

Attend to Incubator

The efficient poultryman inspects his incubating and brooding equipment long before he intends to use it. If broken parts need replacing it is well to order them before the manufacturers become enveloped in the spring rush. Be sure that your equipment is functioning properly.
